

Conclusions: feedback

Conclusion 1

This is strong and well expressed. It summarises the points made in the essay and, at the end, links and contrasts ocean circulation to atmospheric circulation and the relationship of both to temperature distribution. In doing so, the conclusion points to the broader relevance of understanding the linkages between ocean circulation and meridional temperature distribution

Conclusion 2

This is a rather short conclusion. It is not especially informative but comprises rather vague statements. There is no explicit reference to the question and it would be difficult to deduce what the question is from reading the conclusion alone. The opening does not signify that this is a concluding paragraph. While it might be formulaic, it can be a good idea to indicate that this is a concluding paragraph. Moreover, it is not a good idea to refer to 'these' in the opening sentence. 'These' link back to the subject of the last sentence in the previous sentence; grammatically it is better to restate what 'these' are in the first sentence of the new paragraph.

Conclusion 3

A largely effective, if slightly short, review of the processes discussed, although the reference to 'humanity' sits oddly. The use of commas would help the flow of the arguments.
